Roseann has worked professionally for over 40 years as a business education and computer science instructor at high schools and colleges. She also owned and ran a computer business working with LLNL and Microsoft. After retirement Roseann developed an interest in creating jewelry. She studied gems and design and then began creating.

Roseann's style is largely traditional although she does experiment with different gems. She has done commissions making specific jewelry for groups. She has also taught at a senior center showing the members how to make jewelry. Roseann has shown her jewelry in the Bay Area over the last four years.

Roseann attended college at Arizona State University and has a degree in Business Education. Her master's is in Business from CSU Los Angeles and her second master's degree is in Computer Science Education is from CSU Hayward.

She is Web Master of the Alamo Danville Artists' Society and has been working with her husband in fine art, Walter S. Krane, who is represented by the ADAS Blackhawk Gallery in Danville California.
